The Public Servants Association (PSA) congratulates the appointed Heads of the Limpopo Department of Health and the Limpopo Department of Sports, Arts, and Culture.

These appointments represent a positive step forward in strengthening leadership and enhancing service delivery across two critical public-service sectors. The PSA especially welcomes the confirmation of the Head of the Department of Health, Dr NN Ndwamato, who has been serving in an acting capacity for several months. Her steady leadership during this transitional period has demonstrated commitment, resilience, and a deep understanding of the challenges facing the health sector. Her formal appointment brings continuity and stability, which are essential for driving progress and improving healthcare outcomes for Limpopo.

The appointment of the new Head of the Department of Sports, Arts and Culture, Ms KV Mokgonyane, brings fresh energy to a portfolio that plays a vital role in fostering national identity, social cohesion, and creative expression.

The PSA looks forward to constructive engagement with both Departments under their new leadership. The PSA has consistently advocated for swift action to fill these senior positions and views this development as essential for enhancing service delivery and building public confidence. As a Union representing thousands of public servants in Limpopo, the PSA is committed to supporting initiatives that promote excellence, accountability, and the well-being of employees and the communities they serve. The PSA is ready to work with the appointees to uphold ethical standards, ensure the protection of employees' rights, and promote the effective functioning of the public service.
